BACKGROUND

In 1982, President Ronald Reagan formed a Presidential Task Force to study the treatment of crime victims in America and the criminal justice process. After a long and arduous study, the Task Force concluded that the treatment of crime victims in America was a “national disgrace”. One of the Task Force recommendations was to amend the Sixth Amendment of the United States Constitution to include specific rights for crime victims.

Shortly after the publication of the Task Force report, a coalition of leaders from victim assistance organizations met in Washington D.C. to discuss a strategy for a national constitutional amendment. A decision was made to seek amendments to state constitutions from at least 37 of the states prior to introducing a federal constitutional amendment. To date, 33 states have passed a constitutional amendment for victims’ rights.

In 1991, the Colorado General Assembly unanimously voted to place a Constitutional Amendment before the people in November of 1992. During the 1992 legislative session, the General Assembly drafted and passed the enabling legislation for the Constitutional Amendment. This legislation was to become effective upon the anticipated passage of the Constitutional Amendment.

On November 3, 1992, voters overwhelmingly passed a Constitutional Amendment (known as the “Victim Rights Act” or “VRA”) concerning crime victims which read:

Any person who is a victim of a criminal act, or such person’s designee, legal guardian, or surviving immediate family members if such person is deceased, shall have the right to be heard when relevant, informed and present at all critical stages of the criminal justice process. All terminology, including the term “critical stages”, shall be defined by the general assembly.¹

The enabling legislation went into effect upon the proclamation of Governor Roy Romer on January 14, 1993. The legislature made a strong statement as to victim rights in its legislative declaration:

The general assembly hereby finds and declares that the full and voluntary cooperation of victims of and witnesses to crimes with state and local law enforcement agencies as to such crimes is imperative for the general effectiveness and well-being of the criminal justice system of this state. It is the intent of this part 3, therefore, to assure that all victims of and witnesses to crimes are honored and protected by law enforcement agencies, prosecutors, and judges in a manner no less vigorous than the protection afforded criminal defendants.²

The VRA may logically be divided into four important parts:

- 1) Crimes covered by the VRA;
- 2) The critical stages to which the VRA applies;
- 3) The rights afforded to crime victims at the critical stages; and
- 4) The procedures set forth for complying with victim rights.

In every crime where a victim is involved, the DA's Office should ask four important questions: Is this a crime covered by the VRA?; Is this a critical stage covered by the VRA?; If this crime is covered under the VRA, what are my responsibilities to the victim?; and what are the consequences for not providing a victim with their rights?

The following highlights sections of the VRA that apply directly to the DA's Office as well as sections of the VRA that identify victim rights that impact the DA's Office and sections that apply to all agencies in the criminal justice system (such as the definition of "victim" and the methods by which VRA information can be communicated to the victim).

24-4.1-301. Legislative declaration.

The general assembly hereby finds and declares that the full and voluntary cooperation of victims of and witnesses to crimes with state and local law enforcement agencies as to such crimes is imperative for the general effectiveness and well-being of the criminal justice system of this state. It is the intent of this part 3, therefore, to assure that all victims of and witnesses to crimes are honored and protected by law enforcement agencies, prosecutors, and judges in a manner no less vigorous than the protection afforded criminal defendants.

The district attorney shall inform the victim or the victim's designee of the court's decision regarding an alternate arrangement.

(IV) This paragraph (d.5) applies to a victim who is incarcerated or otherwise being held in a local county jail, the department of corrections, or the Division of Youth Services in the Department of Human Services, but is limited to participation by phone.

(f) The right to be informed by local law enforcement agencies, prior to the filing of charges with the court, or by the district attorney, after the filing of charges with the court, of the status of any case concerning a crime against the victim, and any scheduling changes or cancellations, if such changes or cancellations are known in advance; When law enforcement officers have contact with victims after hours, and the law enforcement officer is aware of the day and time the defendant will make his or her first appearance before a judge, it is recommended that the law enforcement officer inform the victim of the day and time of that first appearance. Victims have the right to be heard by the Court at any court proceeding at which a defendant's bond is reduced or modified, the defendant accepts a plea and/or the defendant is sentenced. At times, one or more of these events may happen at a first appearance.

(g) The right to be present at the sentencing hearing, including any hearing conducted pursuant to section 18-1.3-1201 or 18-1.4-102, C.R.S., for cases involving class 1 felonies, of any person convicted of a crime against such victim, and to inform the district attorney and the court, in writing, by a victim impact statement, and by an oral statement, of the harm that the victim has sustained as a result of the crime, with the determination of whether the victim makes written input or oral input, or both, to be made at the sole discretion of the victim;

(h) The right to have the court determine the amount, if any, of restitution to be paid to a victim pursuant to part 6 of article 1.3 of title 18, C.R.S., by any person convicted of a crime against such victim for the actual pecuniary damages that resulted from the commission of the crime;

(II) For purposes of this paragraph (j.5), the victim shall have the right to provide a separate oral statement to the community corrections board considering a transitional referral, but the board shall have discretion to place reasonable parameters on the victim's oral statement. If a community corrections board denies the offender's referral to community corrections, the victim's right under this subparagraph (II) to provide an oral statement shall not take effect.

(III) For purpose of this subsection (1)(j.5), if a victim or a victims designee is unavailable to be present for proceedings to consider an offender for a direct sentence or transitional referral to community corrections as described in (1)(j.5)(I) of this section, and the victim or the victims designee wishes to address the community corrections board, the victim or the victims designee shall notify the community corrections board within reasonable time that the victim is unavailable to attend the proceeding but would like to make a statement. Within its resources, the community corrections board shall arrange for and provide the means for the victim to address the board, which means may include, but not limited to, appearing by phone or similar technology.

(IV) For purposes of this section (1)(j.5), "unavailable" means that the victim or the victim's designee is physically unable to attend the proceeding, may sustain a financial hardship to attend the proceeding, is concerned for his or her safety if he or she attend the proceeding, may suffer significant emotional impact by attending the proceeding, or is unavailable for other good cause.

(1) Law enforcement agencies, prosecutorial agencies, judicial agencies, and correctional agencies shall ensure that victims of crimes are afforded the rights described in section 24-4.1-302.5.

(2) Upon request of a victim, all correctional officials shall keep confidential the address, telephone number, place of employment, or other personal information of such victim or members of such victim's immediate family.

(3) The district attorney's office, if practicable, shall inform the victim of any pending motion that may substantially delay the prosecution. The district attorney shall inform the court of the victim's position on the motion, if any. If the victim has objected, the court shall state in writing or on the record prior to granting any delay that the objection was considered.

(3.5) The District Attorney's Office, if practicable, shall inform the victim of any pending motion or decision by the District Attorney's Office to sequester the victim from a critical stage in the case. The District Attorney shall inform the Court of the victim's position on the motion or the District Attorney's decision, if any. If the victim has objected, then the Court, before granting the sequestration order, shall state in writing or on the record that the victim's objection was considered and state the basis for the Court's decision.

(4) After a crime has been charged, unless inconsistent with the requirements of investigative activities, the district attorney shall consult, where practicable, with the victim concerning the reduction of charges, negotiated pleas, diversion, dismissal, seeking of death penalty, or other disposition. Failure to comply with this subsection (4) shall not invalidate any decision, agreement, or disposition. This subsection (4) shall not be construed as a restriction on or delegation of the district attorney's authority under the constitution and laws of this state.

(5) All reasonable attempts shall be made to protect any victim or the victim's immediate family from harm, harassment, intimidation, or retaliation arising from cooperating in the reporting, investigation, and prosecution of a crime. Whenever possible, a waiting area shall be provided that is separate in both proximity and sight from that of the defendant, the defendant's relatives, and any defense witnesses.

(6) (a) A victim or an individual designated by the victim may be present at all critical stages of a criminal proceeding regarding any crime against such victim unless the court or the district attorney determines that exclusion of the victim is necessary to protect the defendant's right to a fair trial or the confidentiality of juvenile proceedings. If the victim is present, the court, at the victim's request, may permit the presence of an individual to provide support to the victim.

(b) A victim may be present at the phase of the trial at which the defendant is determined to be guilty or not guilty and may be heard at such phase of the trial if called to testify by the district attorney, defense, or court if any such statement would be relevant.

(c) The court shall make all reasonable efforts to accommodate the victim upon the return of a verdict by the jury. If the court is informed by the district attorney that the victim is en route to the courtroom for the reading of the verdict, the court shall state on the record that it has considered the information provided by the district attorney prior to the return of the verdict by the jury.

(7) When a victim's property is no longer needed for evidentiary reasons, the district attorney or any law enforcement agency shall, upon request of the victim, return such property to the victim within five working days unless the property is contraband or subject to forfeiture proceedings.

(9) The district attorney and any law enforcement agency shall inform each victim as to the availability of the following services:

(a) Follow-up support for the victim and the victim's immediate family in order to ensure that the necessary assistance is received by such persons;

(b) Services for child victims and elderly victims, and services for victims who are persons with disabilities, which are directed to the special needs of such victims;

(c) Referral to special counseling facilities and community service agencies by providing the names and telephone numbers of such facilities or agencies, whether public or private, which provide such services as crisis intervention services, victim compensation funds, victim assistance resources, legal resources, mental health services, social services, medical resources, rehabilitative services, financial assistance, and other support services;

victim about a decision not to file charges, the VRA does not require such consultation. While it is recommended that law enforcement inform the victim prior to making the final decision not to file charges, it is not required. However, information about the decision not to file charges must be provided to the victim in a timely manner.

(11) The district attorney shall inform a victim of the following:

It must be a formal request for a filing decision in a felony case for the district attorney's office to have an obligation to inform the victim about a decision not to file charges in a felony case.

(a.5) The charges to be filed, prior to filing of the charges, if the most serious charge to be filed is lower than the most serious charge for which the individual was arrested and the filing of the lower charge may result in the court issuing a new, lower bond;

(b) Any of the critical stages specified in section 24-4.1-302 (2) (a) to (2) (j) and (2) (l) of a criminal proceeding relating to a person accused of a crime against the victim; except that the district attorney shall not be obligated to inform the victim of any appellate review undertaken by the attorney general's office;
